

Located in the remote wilderness of Canada's beautiful Yukon Territory, Wolf Lake Lodge is the perfect destination for corporate groups looking to take a breather from the office. How better to stimulate one's creative juices than to relax in the quiet solitude of 2500 square miles of untouched wilderness, surrounded by mountains and clean crisp mountain air.

We are all about hassle free travel. From most places in North America, guests can leave their homes in the morning and be at the lodge in the early evening – in time to hit the water! Even packing is a breeze; all you need are your clothes and a camera. We have a great supply spin cast rods, reels and lures for guests to use, taking the worry out of traveling with commercial airlines. We also stock popular tried and true flies, and some fly rods and reels for guests to try.

Our lodge is set up for the personalized service that is sure to make you comfortable as soon as you step off the float plane. Whether you are giving your employees a chance to relax or enhancing customer relationships, the cozy atmosphere is sure to accommodate. There is no better place for team building than in a fishing boat! Our small size also gives us the opportunity to offer exclusivity to those who prefer it. Bring your group of eight or more, and you'll be the only ones at the lodge. Since we are the only lodge on the lake, there will be no one else to invade your space!

To add some fun competition to the week, we like to host a friendly fishing tournament where we supply a prize to the first place winner.
